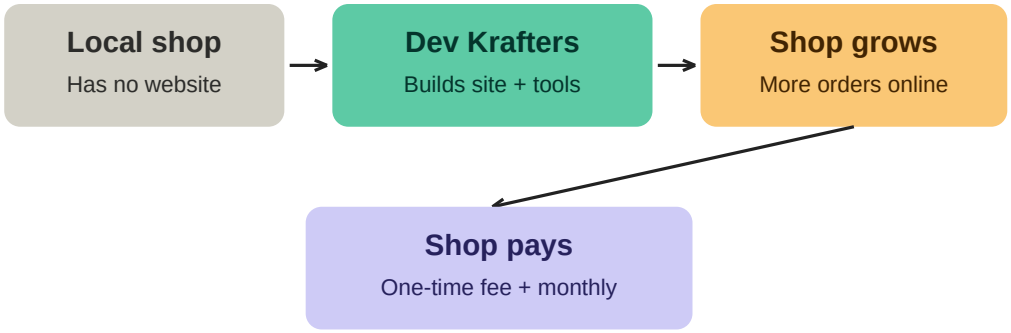
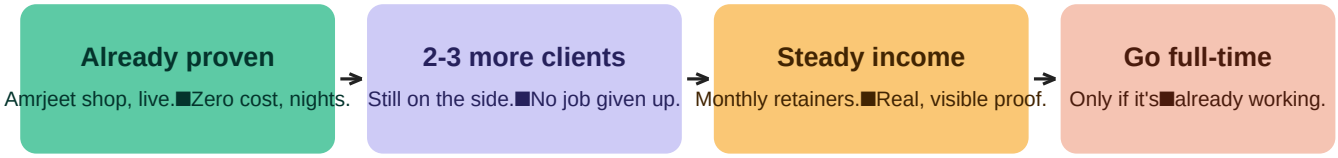
DEV KRAFTERS

What I'm building, and why it's not a risk

1. How it actually works



2. The plan is in stages — nothing risked at once



Family decides together whether to move to the next stage

3. What I want to say to you

Already real: I already built a live website + billing system for the pipe shop (Amrjeet Enterprise). It's working right now.

Simple business: A shop has no website → I build one → they get more customers → they pay me a fee, then a small amount every month.

Not a big risk: I'm not quitting anything or betting everything today. I do this on the side — nights and weekends — while everything else stays normal.

Only scale if it works: I only go full-time once there's steady, visible income — you'll see proof before I make that decision, not after.

What I'm asking for: Just a few months of support while I get 2-3 more clients like Amrjeet. If it doesn't work, nothing is lost.
